AUGUST 7, 2009

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

LOCAL STYLIST ENTERED INTO INTERNATIONAL WORLD STYLE CONTEST.

Indianapolis hairstylist is one of eight finalists entered for North America.

Indianapolis, IN—Christina Lockett, 2000 graduate of Pike High School and 2005 graduate of Indiana State University, has been selected as a semi finalist representing North America in the Davines 2009 World Style Contest. It is now up to an international judging panel to choose three North American finalists to attend the World Style Contest in Venice, Italy this October.

The World Style Contest is an international hair styling competition that brings hairstylists from all over the world, offering them the opportunity to present their vision of fashion forward, yet commercial and wearable hair to their peers on a world wide stage. This four day event includes the World Style Contest, presentations by leading hair designers, seminars, company updates, and a masquerade ball for over 1,000 people from more than 40 countries.

Christina Lockett has been a hair stylist at Indianapolis' Tyler Mason Salon Spa for almost three years. This up and coming stylist started to use her creativity and skills to not only build a loyal client base at Tyler Mason but also to participate in competitions and fashion shows. Early in her career, Lockett placed first in three National Cosmetology Association student competitions. She has also assisted photo shoots for Indianapolis Women Magazine, styled hair for Indianapolis Colts Cheerleaders and Star Struck modeling agency, as well as, participating in the I.F.T's, IBE and Sheltering Wing's Fashion Show.
